PUBLIC FED UP

Flag Mess: How Did

It Happen?

By VICTOR MACKIE Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA-Members of Parliament who managed to get home to their constituencies for the long Labor Day weekend have been sounding out public reaction to the great flag

They will have learned what many have suspected for some time, that the public is fast becoming fed up with the stalemate in Parliament brought on by filibuster, politicking and polemics.

They will have learned that the image of Parliament has been badly tarnished and that both the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties are suffering as the public resentment grows and crystalizes into a "plague on both your houses" attitude.

It Was An Election Promise

The public would like the ma- 1960, Mr. Pearson who was then

The public would like the manoeuvring and bickering stopped.

They would like to see some decision reached on the flag so that parliament could turn its attention to other important business.

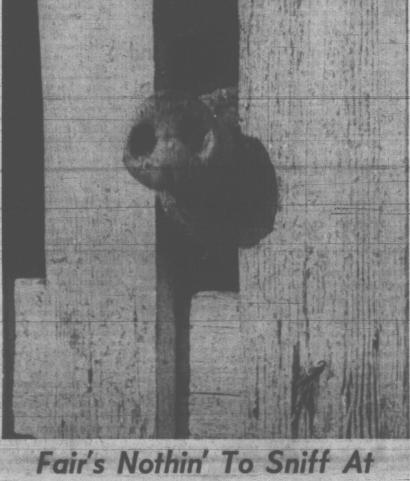

How did parliament get into this predicament labelled as "obstruction" and a "filibuster" by the Liberals but described as legitimate debate on a highly controversial issue by the official opposition.

It began when Liberal leader Pearson and his party incorporated in their election platform in 1962 and 1963 a promise to submit to parliament a decision.

in 1962 and 1963 a promise to submit to parliament a decision for a fiag which carinot be mistaken for the emblem of any other country.

At the same time the Liberal party promised that the Union Jack would be flown on appropriate occasions as a symbol of Canada's membership in the Commonwealth.

After taking office at the head of a Liberal minority government Mr. Pearson became even more convinced a new national distinctive flag that was exclusively Canadian was needed to bring the country closer together.

It would give Canadians a greater feeling of national identity and unity. Today especially, Canadians need faith and confidence in themselves, with pride in Canada and devotion to their country.

Mr. Pearson sincerely be lieves that adoption of a distinctive national flag will help

Congress has just put 9.1 million acres of magnificent country into a National Wilderness Preservation System, with the possibility that it will grow to nearly 15 million acres. The land, to be preserved perpetually in a natural state, is in 14 states, mostly in the west.

Like some other conservation legislation of modern times, the wilderness law came long after it was called for by President eodore Roosevelt. He told Congress in 1901:

"Some of the forest reserves should afford perpetual protection to the native fauna and flora, safe havens of refuge to our rapidly diminishing animals . . . and free camping grounds for the ever increasing numbers of men and women who have learned to find rest health and recreation in the splendid forests and flower clad meadows of our mos

Asking for It

■ nesia - Malaysia theatre these days reads as though it were written in some bygone era when wars were started unabashedly because one country wanted to grab the territory of its neighbor.

President Sukarno of Indonesia doesn't like the new Malaysian state with which he must share the island of Borneo. He didn't like the Dutch presence on New Guinea either— and the results of his military adventure in that area are now well

The "West Irian" territory today is under his control—after a short period of United Nations supervision and will remain so until the end of 1969, when the inhabitants of this part of New Guinea will vote to become independent or remain as part of Indonesia. The result may be forecast with some accuracy, considering that President Sukarno will have had six years to consoli-

The New Guinea adventure was piece of military blackmail which succeeded. The Dutch, without encouragement from their Western allies, found it was not worth the expense of fighting the Indonesians on the beaches and in the jungles of West New Guinea. They relinquished their administration of the territory to the United Nations.

If President Sukarno had been cked in this first adventure in land and people grabbing, it is not likely that he would now be making undeclared war against Malaysia. He found success too easy-and he expects to find more.

The result is that Britain, New Zealand and probably Australia-

China will be thrown into the fight.
The rewards for Red China could be great. A totally dependent Indonesia would put a Communist en-circlement around southeast Asia, where South Viet Nam and Laos are already under heavy pressure, and bring Asian Communism up against the borders of Australia. It must appear as a likely gamble for the Chinese Communists, particularly with a Sukarno eager to fight their battle for them.

President Sukarno's motives appear to be two-fold. He is ambitious to increase his territory and to de-stroy if possible the new Malaysian political unit on his northern flank; and he has formidable domestic problems of economics, finance and ood shortages from which his people's minds may be diverted by visions of military aggrandisement.

Already there has been a prolonged series of scuffles along the jungle frontiers of Malaysia. And now airborne Indonesian troops have landed on the Malay mainland. This could be the prelude to open invasion which undoubtedly would bring Australia into the picture with air force, navy and troops

Mr. Sukarno is playing at brink-manship of the most serious kind. Too many spots on the globe today invite the military involvement of major powers through the mad actions of minor government lead-ers who will not be around to pick up the pieces if the dangerous situa-tions they create should explode.

sockeye salmon posed by proposed flood control and power development on the Fraser River is of serious concern to the important commercial fishing industry of this province.

Other developments on the Fraser system — construction of huge new pulp mills at Prince George and Kamloops—are an even more imminent danger to salmon stocks. The recently-issued annual report of the International Pacific Salmon Fishering Commission and the international Pacific Salmon Fishering Commission and the international Pacific workers as well as heavy losses for mon Fisheries Commission points out that even though agreements have been reached with the companies building the pulp mills on treat-ment of waste the situation remains serious because any addition to the pollution of the Fraser watershed rivers and streams will add considerably to the stresses already placed on spawning salmon due to the natural hazards of the Fraser.

Altogether it would seem that the odds against the great salmon fishery based on runs from the Fraser River are about to be dras-tically increased in the next few the industry which has invested in plant and equipment. There is also the question of the moral right of man to destroy a cycle of nature which has been in operation for eons and is ours in trust for future generations.

FROM WASHINGTON

Mr. Johnson Tackles the Cabinet Rumors Head-On

NORMALLY, presidents up for reelection do not discuss the shape of the next administration until the votes are safely counted. But President Lyndon Johnson is a free and easy rule-breaker, and he is also extremely annoyed at the moment. He is annoved, to be specific, about the spate of re-ports that after next November the govern-ment of the United States will be exclusively staffed by Alsop Texans; that he is on bad terms with this or that Cabinet member and cannot wait to dump the miscreant; that no present Cabinet member except Secretary of Defence Robert McNamara will survive beyond New Year's Day; and so on and on and on. Before and after this week's National Security Council meeting, the President therefore took the most drastic countermeasures that could be taken. At the defence and foreign policy luncheon which is informally linked to the NSC meeting, he tackled the subject head-on.

He began by complaining, with some bitterness, about the intentions that have been so widely attributed to him. He pointed out that he had repeatedly, openly and emphatically expressed his gratifude for the administrative team he inherited from President John Kennedy and his satisfafction with that team's performance under him.

He ridiculed the theory that no member of the team but McNamara would survive the predicted post-election reshufffle; and he used very hard language indeed about the most persistent of all the rumors about occupants of the Johnsonian dog-house the rumor of the President's low Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon.

So much might have been said, of course, merely to encourage the troops, so to say, and without committing the President in any way. But from this beginning, the President went much fur-

He did, not quite go to the length of saying, "I want you here for this job and you there for that job." But he told Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defence McNamara and the head of the White House foreign policy secretariated were secretariated by the borned and expense of the secretary that he housed and expense the secretary that he had a secretary that he h McGeorge Bundy, that he hoped and expected all three of them to continue to serve under him after the election.

He further indicated that he would being as superstitious as the next man, was careful to preface these revelations of his future intentions with the phrase, "If I'm re-elected." Even so, the episode something of a curiosity in the history of modern American politics. It is much more than this as well, however. It is a fairly complete answer, in fact, to the rather numerous people who have been making worried forecasts about the kind of administration President Johnson will want, when and if he is president in his own right.

He is a hard man to serve, ruthless in his demands on the time, patience and loyalty of his personal staff. Except in the long ago days when he was youth administrator in Texas, he had never held an administrative post when he entered the White House. For these and several other reasons it has been justifiable to suspect that he might want an administra-tion of yes-men and cronies.

Rusk and McNamara, Dillon and Bundy are neither yes-men nor cronies however. Any administration in which these four men occupy key positions will be administration of unusual distinction, And we now know that the President wants his next administration to include all these men, as well as not a few other members of the existing team—on the same occasion he also said that he thought the entire team was performing

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Obviously there won't be absolute con tinuity between the Johnson administra-tion that seems to lie in the future and the Kennedy-Johnson administration of to-day. Some will stay on, but others will go. There will be fewer of the leftwing intellectuals that President Kennedy fav-ored. There will be representatives of new groups, such as the moderate Republicans who are abandoning their party and the businessmen for Johnson who are w being organized.

But the more lurid forecasts have been vered; the more sombre fears can be laid to rest, in view of what has now happened. For unless they are very foolish—which President Johnson certainly is not-presidents do not say the kind of things he has now said without really

But the analogy does not hold up. Neither community in Canada expects to be murdered in its beds by the other, neither community's members regard themselves in reality citizens of their mother countries, and the mother countries do not continue to regard themselves as historical enemies. All of these facts are the reverse in Cyprus.

The Greek Cypriot case makes sense on paper and in principle. The president's determination is at least in keeping with the nationalistic spirit of the times. Where the Greek Cypriot irresponsibility lies is in their refusal to take into account the historical harreds and political realities of the caster Mediterrepass area. "No crit." historical hatreds and political realities of the eastern Mediterranean area. "No out-side interference" is ordinarily a reason-able demand. By mobilizing, as I say, in time, "Italia Nostra" managed to rally support both in the national government and in the City Council for legislation that would provide for a rigidly-controlled development of business and industry without ruining the skyline or spoiling the amenities of one of the world's most beautiful cities. It looks as if the lattle is won, but Robert Furneaux Jordan, the English authority, has a word of warning for "Italia Nostra."

"A vistory in the council chamber is never final," he cautions. "We know this only too well. We know how one English city after another has had development plans drawn up by good planners... and how, bit by bit, under tremendous pressure, those plans have been modified and diluted through the years until there is nothing left. OTTAWA-Feeling something like Ulysses returned, I arrived back from Alaska after three weeks of total separation from Canadian events. But nothing has changed.

The MPs whom I thought would have packed it up for an August vacation are still fighting the next election on the floor of the Commons. The leader of the opposition is still spouting resonant banalities. The prime minister is still stubbornly acting as if he had a majority in the House—as, counting his splinter gorup allies, perhaps he has. And inexperienced cabinet ministers are still having trouble keeping their feet out of their mouths.

More importantly, the nation's business is suffering as the House wrangles over the kind of national flag we should have. Technically the flag problem is the subject of a debate, but filibuster is a better word.

It was the French writer Alphonse Karr who made the witty comment that "The more things change, the more things are the same.' Maybe if he'd been in our Parliament this summer, he would have said, "The more politicians talk, the more things are the same.'

Any filibuster is bound to harken minds back to the pipeline debate of 1956, but the resemblance in this case is only superficial, as in parliamentary form and procedure. Eight years ago the rights of Parliament as safeguards of democracy became the main issue, grandly transcending the question of how Parliament should finance the construction of a pipeline. There is no comparable Issue now before the House.

government, to the end that the Liberals shall be defeated in the next election. This end may not result, but the political advantage that Prime Minister Pearson might expect from giving the nation a flag could be largely nullified by controversy in the Commons that discourages public acceptance of the maple leaf.

This extended session, with no Easter recess and not even a one-day break between Domin ion Day and Labor Day, except Saturdays and Sundays, should quiet those who protested the MPs' pay increase to $18,000. It should also discourage those tempted to seek parliamentary seats for the sake of the money involved.

Between the pay increase and summer-long sittings, this year has transformed membership in the Commons into a truly fulltime job. The next step should be to ensure that MPs treat their job as such, by instituting a roll call e some other form of attendance check. While those who absent themselves for selfish reasons are usually no great loss so far as public business is concerned, there should nevertheless be an official record of their absences so the voters can take proper cognizance.

Diefenbaker was entirely right when he said on Tuesday that "I do not think that anybody should object to sitting with the salary that is being received today." But it is a little more difficult to agree with his reason for saying this, because he was defending the Tories against charges of wasting time and money with their four-week filibuster of the Pearson flag.

'Now that we're getting along towards the Issue now before the House.

The real purpose of the flag filibuster seems to be to shake the public's confidence in the course," he added, "to the Christmas recess."

Gets In Trouble

But the senator gets in-trouble with many of the things he says because, unlike most politicians, he tries to nswer every question that is asked of him. Most politicians try to shift ground when they are asked about a subject they don't know about. But, as Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey might put it, not Sen. Goldwater. His associates describe the senator's shoot-from-the-lip answer as a disconcerting way he has of thinking out loud. His critics are less charitable. They maintain that his answers are often uninformed because the senator himself

Shortly before the Republi can unity meeting at Hershey, Pa., last month Mr. Goldwater was asked what the agenda was.

"Oh, Lordy," he replied. "It's so long I can't remember it all. Somebody will tell you about it later."

At the Hershey meeting he was asked to amplify thoughts on the press and its coverage of the campaign. "Oh, I'll get along with you fellows, all right," he replied matter - of - factly. "I don't worry about it. You've got to

He is equally candid about the uphill fight he appar ently will have to wage to win the election.

"I'm not wealthy enough in votes to have anyone take them away," he once com mented when asked his feeling about the possibility of a presidential candidacy by Gov. George A. Wallace of Alabama.

And when President John-son kidded Mr. Goldwater about not being able to un-derstand the administration's programs because he was vearing-for the benefit of photographers — glasses without lenses, the senator waved the glasses at a crowd at the Illinois state fair and said:

Sounding Board By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

Two of Victoria's better known theatre personali-Tommy and Elizabeth Mayne, are currently doing the shows in New York. Prominent members of the Victoria Theatre Guild, of which organization Mr. Mayne is a past president, they are, apart from enjoying a thrilling sort of busman's holiday, particularly interested in new twists in staging and in spotting material that could be used on the local stage.

At the time I first heard of their proposed safari through the neon jungle of Broadway, it struck me that their impressions

East Province on the east coast of the Chinese mainland has had for centuries the reputation for being the darkest centre of crime, debauchery and danger-ous intrigue in the Pacific.

Today, the chilling tales of piracy and opium smuggling— tales of wild, no-limit gambling and of free-wheeling love—tales of the lusty, hazardous lives led by spies and counterspiesremain stories of the past. Activity in Macao seems to have settled down to the pace of the pedicabs as their drivers pedal visitors down the broad avenues and bounce them over the cobblestones of the narrow, crooked alleys lined with pastel-colored

Since the Second World War the Macao government has been tireless in enforcing the laws and codes of this once sinful city. The same moral drive that won the city for the Portuguese in 1557 (Macao's tiny land area was ceded to Portugal as a favor for routing vicious Chinese pir ates from the area) has created a safe and respectable vacation spot for visitors to and residents sanctuary for refugees from Red

Charlottetown Inspired Bennett, Sees B.C. Bank Future 'Bright'

Premier Bennett flew back into Victoria Friday afternoon and said he was more optimistic than ever about the future of Canada — and the Bank of British Columbia.

He said Canada is "basically more united" than any country in the world today, and declared the outlook for the B.C. bank was "never brighter" "It will benefit not only British Columbia but the whole of Canada a, and T'm sure our friends in Ottawa will realize this."

400 Tails to Wag Dog Show

RARE BREED for Island dog shows are afghans Ebony, a champion bitch, and Shiek, a male pup just starting on his show ring career. They are two of the four registered afghans on the Island and will be seen Friday and Saturday in Vancouver Island Dog Fanciers' Association show at 10:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. both days at Esquimait Sports Centre. Owner is Mrs. Donald Anderson, 1130 will be seen next week at the annual show of the Vancouver Island Dog Fanciers' Association.

Among the 400 dogs entered will be eight salukis, six Afghans, four bulldogs and one puli.

The show will be held Friday and Saturday from 10:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. both days at malt Municipal Sports

"A saluki looks like a greyhound with hair and the puli is of European origin and resembles a big ball of wool," said Howard Dufton, first vice-president of VIDFA.

"The Afghan and bulldog breeds are not uncommon but they are not common to our shows," he added.

Judges will be Ted Gunderson of Ottawa from the federal department of agriculture, livestock branch, and Tom Quilley of Edmonton who is a former director of the Canadian Kennel Club.

* * * About 200 dogs will be judged each day in conformation and handling, and other dogs will be put through obedience trials.

Trophies will also be given for best braces of dogs (two of same breed) in samoyed, pekingese and German shep-

That's the advice of Ronald George Woodman, 50, an Eng-lishman who proved it the hard way by cycling 4,600 miles across Canada to Ucluelet on the west coast of Vancouver

Mr. Woodman, who until June

England, averaged 75 miles a day on his ride.

He started his trip weighing 200 pounds and lost 20 on the ride across the country.

"I had 31/2 months vacation and I thought I'd just ride around the Maritime Prov-inces," said Mr. Woodman, who arrived in Halifax in June with his English bicycle.

Dream Launched as Floating Lab Takes to the Water

By RON SUDLOW

Hull No. 250 slid down the ways Friday at Yarrows Ltd. but to Pacific Naval Laboratory acientists it was more than a shipyard's reference

The scientists know Hull 250 as the Endeavour, and her launching brought closer the realization of their 13-year-old dream of having a ship specially designed for marine physics research.

The Endeavour is expected to be delivered to PNL by early February. Price tag on the floating laboratory will be $4.5

PNL scientists have been using Oshawa, an Algerine class minesweeper converted for research purposes.

"The Oshawa has been a good ship, but this one will be larger and faster and have a higher endurance of 10,000 miles," said Dr. F. H. Sanders, chief superintendent of PNL

"We will be able to cover more ocean, handle heavier

One of what Dr. Sanders called "a myriad of smaller features" is the Endeavour's helicopter deck with a tele-

"The hangar folds out like a telescope to provide a canopy for the helicopter to protect it from the salt spray," he ex-

Dr. A. H. Zimmerman, chairman of the Defence Research Board whose wife sponsored the vessel, said the Endeavour's work will aid in submarine detection "especially against nu-clear submarines which bring new dimensions to the threat to defence and shipping."

More than 80 per cent of all PNL efforts are devoted to antisubmarine warfare in the fields of underwater acoustics, magnetic methods of submarine

Her bulbous shaped bow, which is normally designed for passenger ships and large ocean-going ships for speed and efficiency, will act instead to reduce pitching in heavy seas.

Dr. Zimmerman said Endeavour will be based at Esquimalt and carry a civillian crew of 36 men, 14 scientists and two helicopter personnel.

• Memorial Service 11:00 a.m.

Miss Patricia Loft, Victoria, fourth-year student in education is one of four resident fellows assigned to Emily Carr and Margaret Newton women's residences on Gordon Head Campus. She is pictured trying out individual mailboxes given to each of the 71 women students in both residences. Each building has a recreation room, soundproof typing room and study room with blackboards. Other resident fellows, inset from left, are: Pauline Owens, Victoria; Carole Knight, North Surrey and Cathy Jeyes, West Vancouver. Fellows are members of the supervisory staff of the residence halls. They work closely with the Don and the student executive.

Opening of the two women's residences is a "dream come true" for Mrs. Phoebe Noble, Dean of Women at University of Victoria. Policies and procedures that will govern the women's residences have been decided by a representative group of students and faculty members, headed by Mrs. Noble. "We have been working on them since before Christmas," she says, "and we think we have a very thorough and workable handbook for the first year, at least." Couch Mrs. Noble is sitting on, with matching chair, is a gift of the John Hebden Gillespie Chapter, IODE, for a lounge in the Emily Carr Hall.

Women's Residences At University of Victoria

Among those assigned residence in the halls are, from the left: Susan Humphries, Calgary, a second-year student; Arden Ford, Ottawa, second year, and Anne Coates, Ottawa, first year.

Two first-year students and a third-year student who have been accepted in the residences are, from the left: Phyllis Thornton, Vernon, B.C.; Donna Borradell, Paradise Hill, Sask., and Elizabeth Dyer, Minnedosa, Man.

Mrs. Lola Mae Mora, residence director, stands in the doorway of her suite in the Emily Carr Hall, where she will do double duty as acting Don this year. In the background is Miss Diana Nelson, Don of Margaret Newton Hall. Mrs. Mora holds a book that records, pictures and background information on each woman student in the two halls. Page is open at picture of Miss Daphne Gillespie, inset, a 3rd-year student who is coming from Hawaii to attend University of Victoria. The resident director is responsible for every facet of residence hall operation including welfare and morale of students, liaison with parents, university faculty and administration.

Ready and Waiting

Julie Trueman, thind-year student, left, will register from Whitehorse, Y.T.; Wendy Clarke, first year, centre, from Edmonton, and Sally Balman, fifth year, from Toronto.

Arranged by ELIZABETH FORBES,

Miss Elsie Wollaston, Brentwood Bay, first woman to register for residence, is shown in the attractive room allotted to her. Inset is Miss Elizabeth McLennan of New Westminster, the second woman accepted. Each floor in the residences has a different color scheme; there is wall-to-wall carpeting throughout, for easy maintenance and to cut down noise. Natural wood finish in golden ash tone is seen on desks, vanities and wardrobes. Drapes in durable Soutch cottons tone with carpets and the predominating stripes in bed throws and pillow covers.

The milkman cometh . . .

Driving up Island last week end we spotted a particularly handsome herd of cows up Duncan way . . and a sign that informed us this farm ships milk to Northwestern Creamery . . Now we're not claiming that bovine pulchritude has any particular effect on the quality of milk . . but isn't it nice to know your milk and dairy products are coming from clean, well-kept . . and possibly beautiful . . animals? . . . Numerous farms like this one supply Northwestern . . who pride them selves on their fresh local milk, and their ability to deliver it to your door at its peak . . while the bloom is still on, so to speak! . . If you haven't been having your milk delivered regularly, now's a good time to contact Northwestern Creamery . Home delivery is so convenient . . / saves you time, and in the long run, money . . And if you have children who balk at drinking plain milk . . . get them Kayo . . Northwestern's chocolate milk which gives them all milk's benefits . . Easy on teeth too because any sweetness is counteracted by the rich calcium content of the milk . . . Youngsters will never plead for pop when there's Kayo in the fridge! . . Back-to-school hair stylings . . .

In all the furore of getting ready for another school year ... you may have overlooked the little item of haircuts ... Oh, of course we know the boys have probably visited the baffer for their shearing ... but the girls need something more than this ... their hair needs proper styling to keep it looking its best ... and this is no matter of vanity, but of tidiness and good grooming ... qualities that should be inculcated in a girl from an early age ... We've seen a number of young people at the House of Glamour recently, and Danny Hajnal tells us he's taking special pains with the youngsters right now .. perhaps because, being a father himself, he knows how important it is that girls should look right in school ... He's giving a specially reduced price on Junior Embassy permanents, for those who need a bit of extrabody in their hair ... As far as cutting is concerned, he likes to follow the natural growth of the hair so the style is natural easy to maintain ... Short, curly and soft is the good word on styling ... But the blunt cut for straight-haired youngsters is very attractive too ... shorter in back, sides swinging toward the face with a swirl of curl ... the House of Glamour, for all member divisions at 8 p.1.

A fine place for family living . . .

A fine place for family living . . .

We realize we've been doing a fair amount of raving about Christie Point as a good place to live . . . but you know how it is when you're sold on something yourself . . . the milk of human kindness starts flowing and you just can't wait to pass along the good word! . . So to the people who've asked us what Christie Point is like . . . as well as to those who are still wondering . . we repeat: It's just fine, thank you! . . . Couldn't be better, in fact: . . All sorts of suites . . some in buildings for adults only . . others where children are not only admitted, but welcomed! . . And you couldn't bring children to a better place because there's no through traffic . . (what traffic there is proceeds at a snall's pace) . There are playgrounds . . a swimming pool . . kindergarten. right on the property . . and school within walking distance . . Available at the moment are several 3-bedroom family suites wonderful value at $135 per month . They're roomy with plenty of cupboard, closet and storage space . . hig bathroom . as well as 2-piece bathroom off the master bedroom . bright kitchen . . We should think there'd be ample space for a family of anywhere up to five . Come see for yourself. . Christie Point Apartments, 2891 Craigowan Road, EV 5-0644.

here on a visita band and two of their friends. Mr. and Mrs. L. In fact, Cecilia Schultz re-commends that Victoria's Mc-Pherson Theatre be planned woo artists from that medium on to the concert stage."

This opinion gains impa when you realize that Cecilia Schultz's name is almost immortal in Seattle for her unrivalled success, achieved when she leased the Moore Theatre there from 1935 to 1949.

During that time she treated Seattle to a surfeit of first-class entertainment that included con cert appearances of such as Marian Anders "greats" as Marian Anderson, John Charles Thomas, Rach-maninoff and many others.

In addition to concerts, she brought many operas and shows such as "Porgy and Bess," "The Merry Widow" and "Gypsy Raron"

Today she confines her activities to serving on the cultural boards of her city, including those of the symphony orchestra and Seattle's opera house which will celebrate its first birthday this fall.

Indeed, Mrs. Schultz is the one that named the Seattle Opera House. "We had three meetings in order to decide what to call it. Some wanted Concert Convention Hall, others, Puget Hall, but I finally won my way."

Recognizing her contribution to Seattle's cultural life, its mayor and council named a room in the opera house "Ce-cilia Schultz Music Room."

To be used as a rehearsal stu-dio, it will be furnished with furniture from the Schultz's country home. In addition, it will house the impresario's Steinway piano, as well as a painting of herself and many autographed pictures of the artists she introduced to the city.

In addition, Mrs. Schultz has also donated three huge chande liers for other parts of the

Convinced that opera is the coming mode, Cecilia Schultz cites, as an example, the fact that West Germany can now boast a total of 56 opera houses.

It was from Germany, that her ancestors emigrated in 1830. "My mother's people came out to the United States, complete with a music master and three pianos. I was born to a musical heritage."
Her talent must have been outstanding for, at the age of 20, she found herself heading the ofano department of Kansas College, a position she held for three years.

But it was as an impresario that Cecilia Schultz found her most successful forte. She attributes her success to a "sixth sense that allowed me to pick the artists who could draw a

This success was strictly a one-woman affair, with her husband giving morale support from the background.

"He's tone deaf or something —he never went to a concert. But he was wonderful with his encouragement." This never wavered, even when his wife went to New York to sign up artists for her first sea-

"But I must admit that h ended up by losing 30 pounds after I told him that I'd come back with $100,000 in contractsall on credit!"

His faith was justified. Mrs. Schultz made enough that session to pay for her first European jaunt.

THE MAN AMPLIFIER-Why not figure out a way to increase man's physical capabilities by attaching little motors to him and let them provide the muscle power? Good idea, said scientists at the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory in Buffalo, N.Y. So they devised an external "skeleton" which can make a superman out of a mere mortal. The motors strapped to the man in the above photo amplify his normal muscular actions so that he can lift and move objects too heavy for circus strong These motors aren't powered yet. The scientists are working on it.

Russian Parents Revolt

MOSCOW (UPI)-Russian parents staged a quiet revolution today.

Most of them sent their children to classes on the first day of school without the traditional uniforms.

Boys are still required to wear the grey long pants, the closed collar tunics and visored caps that were standdardized under the late dictator Josef Stalin.

Girls should appear for classes in their heavy brown skirts, white blouses and maid-like white aprons.

But most of the hundreds of thousands of Moscow children trooped to school this week in the short pants and light skirts suitable to the warm temperature. Western observers said they saw relobservers said they saw rel-atively few uniforms.

It was a triumph of good sense. Communist authorities have been slowly backing away from the uniforms as they have from so much of the public customs dictated by Stalin.

Liston Training Anyway

DENVER (AP)—Sonny Liston will begin training on Labor Day for what he hopes will be a rematch with heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, who stopped him on a technical knockout in Miami in February. Liston admitted he doesn't know when the fight will be held, but says it likely will be in Boston, Nov. 16.

Liston said he has been doing roadwork for three weeks and weighs 220. He looks fit.

PUBLIC FED UP

Flag Mess: How Did It Happen?

By VICTOR MACKIE

OTTAWA-Members of Parliament who managed to get home to their constituencies for the long Labor Day weekend have been sounding out public reaction to the great flag

They will have learned what many have suspected for some time, that the public is fast becoming fed up with the stalemate in Parliament brought on by filibuster, politicking and polemics.

They will have learned that the image of Parliament has been badly tarnished and that both the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties are suffering as the public resentment grows and crystalizes into a "plague on both your houses" attitude.

It Was An Election Promise

Pearson and his party incorporated in their election platform that he planned to replace the in 1962 and 1963 a promise to submit to parliament a decision for a flag which cannot be missing the planned to replace the red ensign with a new distinctive flag.

He went on to declare that

East Province on the east coast of the Chinese mainland has had for centuries the reputation for being the darkest centre of crime, debauchery and danger-ous intrigue in the Pacific.

Today, the chilling tales of iracy and opium smugglingtales of wild, no-limit gambling and of free-wheeling love tales' of the lusty, hazardous lives led by spies and counterspies—must remain stories of the past. Activity in Macao seems to have settled down to the pace of the pedicabs as their drivers pedal visitors down the broad avenues and bounce them over the cobblestones of the narrow, crooked alleys lined with pastel-colored

Since the Second World War the Macao government has been tireless in enforcing the laws and codes of this once sinful city. The same moral drive that won the city for the Portuguese in 1557 (Macao's tiny land area was ceded to Portugal as a favor for routing vicious Chinese pirates from the area) has created a safe and respectable vacation spot for visitors to and residents of nearby Hong Kong, and a sanctuary for refugees from Red

Printing Firms Get Injunction Against ITU

preme Court injunction Friday restraining representatives of the International Typographical Union (CLC) from attempting to induce commercial printers to refuse to produce national advertisements which appear in Toronto's three daily newspapers and others in Canada.

The first known cases of ported by Dr. James Taylor, deputy health minister, and Dr. G. A. Gibson of Courtenay, director of the Upper Island health unit.

The boy was playing in a deserted hut on Denman Island when he received the bite. The pers and others in Canada.

Mr. Justice Edson Haines is sued the injunction hours after the Council of Printing Industries and four printing firms filed a damage suit against officers of the ITU. The union has been on strike since July 9 at the three Toronto papers—The Globe and Mail, The Star and The Telegram.

The union announced later dead bats from the Island have been sent to the UBC animal pathology laboratory following two cases of rabies resulting from bites.

A 12-year-old Comox boy holidaying on Denman Island was bitten by an infected bat this week and was given an injection of anti-rabies serum.
